THE [Numb. 864.]

MARYLAND GAZETTE,

Containing the lateſt Advices foreign and domeſtic.

THURSDAY, November 26, 1761.

POMERANIA, Auguſt 15.

YESTERDAY a few hundreds of Col. Belling's regiment furiouſly attacked the flank of the Swediſh army, two regiments of which they broke, and drove back upon their infantry, about 100 were killed upon the ſpot, and a great number wounded and priſoners. The Swedes retired to Waldeck, where Mr. Belling was following them.

Hanover, Auguſt 18. General Luckner continuing the purſuit of the Viſcount de Belſunce, came up with him near Uſlar, and, after a ſharp combat, obliged him to give way, having killed a great number of his men, made 400 priſoners, and taken two ſtandards.

We have certain accounts that there is a prodigious ſcarcity in the French army of M. Broglio.

The French have been repulſed in an attack they made on the 14th with 8000 men, and 6 pieces of cannon, upon the little town of Horn, which was defended by 300 men, thrown into it by Prince Ferdinand. The Prince has given great rewards to the brave men who defended it.

Magdebourg, Auguſt 20. Letters of the 17th and 18th from ſeveral places bring accounts, that General Laudohn having on the 15th detached 43 ſquadrons of Auſtrian cavalry, to join the Ruſſians, who had paſſed the Oder, and were encamped in the neighbourhood of Parckwitz, his Pruſſian Majeſty meeting with that body, on their march, had attacked, and entirely defeated them; made a great number of priſoners, and diſperſed the reſt.

Auguſt 27. The King had a conſiderable advantage in Sileſia on the 15th. The fact, as far as we can yet judge, appears to be this: The plan of Marſhal Butterlin and General Laudohn was to compleat their junction near Parckwitz.

In order to this, the latter advanced 30 ſquadrons of his beſt cavalry, and ten battalions of grenadiers, who were attacked with ſuch vivacity by the King's troops, that only ten ſquadrons, and thoſe very roughly handled, joined the Ruſſians; the reſt returned to Gen. Laudohn; and that the junction of the two armies is certainly prevented. The King has now his head-quarters at the convent of Wahlſtadt, where he has an opportunity of obſerving the Auſtrians, who are poſted between Freybourg and Bagendorf; as alſo the Ruſſians, who have ſent their heavy baggage over the Oder, and it is not at all improbable that their army will follow them.

Brunſwick, Auguſt 21. This evening the corpſe of Prince Henry will be interred in the Cathedral church of this city. Their Serene Highneſſes the Duke of Brunſwick, the Landgrave of Heſſe, with all the general officers, will attend the funeral.

Advices from the ſide of the Weſer mention, that M. Broglio, having paſſed the Weſer at Hoxter, the 19th, the poſts of General Luckner had upon that been withdrawn towards Eimbeck. Prince Ferdinand had alſo detached a corps over that river, under the command of General Wutgenau, who is now poſted at Halle, on the road to Hamelen. Col. Freytag with his Chaſſeurs, are to be poſted on the Werra, to annoy the enemy's communication on that ſide. The loſs of the French, in priſoners, on the 14th and 15th, in the action with General Luckner at Duſſel and Uſlar, amount to 43 officers, 759 ſoldiers, beſides 800 horſes taken.

Hamburgh, Auguſt 21. M. de Hecht, who reſides here in Quality of Miniſter from the King of Pruſſia to the Circle of Lower Saxony, has juſt received an Expreſs with the following Advices, dated from Glogau the 17th of Auguſt:

"By an Expreſs diſpatched from Liegnitz we this Moment receive the agreeable News, that our glorious Monarch having the Day before Yeſterday [the 15th] attacked, within a little Diſtance of that Place, the Army of General Laudohn, which had been joined by the Corps of Ruſſians under Gen. Fermor, he had totally defeated them; and that after this Victory his Majeſty had ſent General Ziethen in Purſuit of the Auſtrians, whilſt he marched with the main Body of his Army againſt Marſhal Butterlin, to engage him likewiſe. This great Event we have confirmed from many Places at the ſame Time; and as we have this Morning, from ſeven o'Clock till Noon, heard a great Cannonading on the Side of the Oder, we doubt not but his Majeſty is alſo come to Action with the main Body of the Ruſſian Army. If we may depend on certain Advices, the Ruſſians have already ſent all their heavy Baggage over the River, and M. Butterlin is retired to Hernſtadt. The great Number of ſcattered Soldiers and Deſerters found ſince this Affair upon the High Roads, have doubtleſs prevented the Arrival of Couriers."

Copy of a Letter from Glogau, Auguſt 17.

"Yeſterday, about four in the Evening, arrived here an Expreſs, diſpatched by the Magiſtrates of Liegnitz, with the agreeable News, that the Ruſſians having laſt Saturday attempted to effectuate their Junction with the Army under General Laudohn, the King had taken Advantage of that Opportunity to attack the Auſtrians, and has totally defeated them; that immediately after the Action, his Majeſty had left the Command of a Part of his Army to Gen. Ziethen, with Orders to purſue the flying Enemy to the Utmoſt; and with the reſt of his Troops had marched to the Ruſſians, with a Deſign to attack them. Theſe Advices add, that they were retreating in great haſte towards the Oder, and that his Majeſty followed them very cloſely."

Hague, Auguſt 27. The new Britiſh Ambaſſador Extraordinary has given a grand entertainment, at which all people of diſtinction here were preſent. According to the laſt advices from the armies, Duke Ferdinand was advancing towards Caſſel, and the Hereditary Prince was at Wolferſhagen. All the letters from Paris ſpeak of Peace as a thing at hand.

Lipſtadt, Auguſt 28. The Marſhal Duke de Broglio has indeed paſſed the Weſer with no great loſs, but for any thing we can perceive, to very little purpoſe. The city of Hanover is not to be taken by a Coup de Main, ſo that he ſeems to be directing his march to the Werra and the Fulda. Duke Ferdinand is very diligent in cutting off the enemy's ſubſiſtence, and has been ſo ſucceſsful therein, that the French are in a very diſtreſſed condition. On the 26th the caſtle of Dringelberg upon the Dymel was ſuddenly inveſted, and the French garriſon made priſoners of war. The Marſhal Prince de Soubiſe has not been at all more fortunate than the Marſhal Duke. He firſt thought of beſieging Munſter; failing in that, he propoſed the reducing Ham, and being diſappointed in that by the celerity of the Hereditary Prince, he is now taking himſelf and his army back to the Dulman.

Hague, Sept. 1. Though we have not received any direct account from Prince Ferdinand's head-quarters, we are however informed from ſeveral places upon the Weſer, and in the neighbourhood, that after Marſhal Broglio had been obliged to paſs that river, and abandon Hoxter to the Allies, his Serene Highneſs had, by forced marches, gained the Dymel; and after forcing, in conjunction with the Hereditary Prince, all the enemy's poſts on that ſide, and particularly at Dringelberg, where upwards of 300 men had been made priſoners, his Serene Highneſs arrived with great part of his army, on the 26th of Auguſt, at Hoff-Gieſmar, in Heſſe. We are ſince informed, that he had puſhed a corps forward to Winter-Kaſten, near Caſſel; and that a large train of artillery and ſtores were in march to join him from Hamelen. In order to ſecure, during this march, that part of the Weſer between Hamelen and the Dymel, Prince Ferdinand left Gen. Sporcken with a body of troops at Hoxter. Theſe unexpected motions of the allied army, had obliged M. Broglio, who occupied with his army the country between Furſtenberg and Eimbeck, to fall back, and take a poſition nearer the Weſer, between Gottingen and Munden.

Hague, Auguſt 28. Letters juſt received from the Glogau bring an Account, that on the 15th Inſtant 43 Squadrons of Auſtrians, which had been ſent by Gen. Laudohn to join the Ruſſian Army, were totally defeated by the King of Pruſſia; and that the Cannon and Trophies which the Horſe Grenadiers had with them were taken. That the Ruſſian Army had been driven back from Groſs Becken to Mettiche, and that two Regiments of their Infantry had been made Priſoners by General Knoblauch, in the Purſuit towards the Oder.

Letters from other Parts make the Advantage on the Pruſſian Side ſtill greater, as they acquaint us, that the whole Body of Auſtrians, defeated the 15th near Parckwitz, conſiſted of 12,000 Men, Part of which were the 43 Squadrons before-mentioned, who were the Prime of the Auſtrian Cavalry and Horſe Grenadiers. They add that the Ruſſian main Army, upon the Report of the Defeat, having retreated immediately, the King purſued them over the Oder, cannonading them continually the 16th and 17th Inſtant.

LONDON, Auguſt 29.

A Letter from Mr. James Fearns, late of Liverpool, and now Britiſh Conſul in the Iſland of Tercera, one of the Azores, to his Friends in Liverpool, ſays, "Since the laſt of November we have felt ſeveral Earthquakes, and on the 31ſt of March the Sea roſe to a great Height, and fell again ſo low, that the Keys were left dry; all the Lighters and Fiſhing-Boats that were hauled up in Porto-Rico, were carried down into the Bay, and broke to Pieces upon the Rocks. On the 14th of April we had four ſmall Earthquakes; and on the 15th, about One in the Morning, we were all raiſed out of our Beds by a violent Shock; from which Time the Earth was almoſt continually trembling till the Evening of the 17th, when we had two other violent Shocks, attended with Noiſes like the Diſcharging of Cannon. Theſe, though they increaſed our Fears, yet they ſeemed to have good Effect upon the Earth; for afterwards Tremblings were not ſo frequent. The next Morning News was brought that there was a great Smoke ſeen about 3 Leagues to the N. W. of this City, which was ſoon confirmed by Noiſes like Thunder at a Diſtance, which ſeemed to proceed from the ſame Place. Several People were ſent to examine it, but ſo great were the Tremblings of the Earth, and the Smoke and the Noiſes, that they durſt not approach near enough to give a regular Account. This continued three Days, in which we were continually alarmed with Earthquakes, or the ſaid dreadful Noiſes. On the 29th we had 3 Shocks, which exceeded any we had yet felt, in which the Noiſes were ſo loud, and the Agitations of the Earth ſo violent, that every Body thought it was opening under their Feet; and ſoon after Account was brought, that Fire was burſt out of the Ground, about half a League to the Eaſtward of the aforeſaid Smoke. This gave us new Alarms, which were increaſed almoſt every Hour with Accounts that Rivers of Fire had iſſued out of the Vulcanoes, and that ſome of them directed their Courſe towards this City. On the 23d I went to ſee it, and found that the Accounts we had heard were not exaggerated: The firſt Sight of it was ſo dreadful, that ſome of the Company durſt not proceed; but I was determined to approach as near as poſſible; and accordingly went forward with a Clergyman of that Neighbourhood. When we were as near as we could go for the Heat, we got upon an Eminence, from whence we had a Proſpect of the whole. It is impoſſible for the Imagination to form ſo horrible a Sight as preſented itſelf to our Views from thence. There was three large Vulcanoes, at a conſiderable Diſ-

tance from each other, (the Mouth of one of them was at leaſt 50 Yards long) from all Parts of which proceeded Bellowings like Thunder, and vaſt Quantities of red-hot Stones and Flakes of Fire; and all round about was a large burning Lake, out of which proceeded ſeveral Rivers, the principal Ones directing their Courſes about N. W. The larger Stones fell generally near the Place from whence they iſſued, but the ſmaller Ones were thrown up to an incredible Height, and by the Wind were forced on one Side, which had already raiſed three large Hills. The Cluttering of the Stones in the Air, the terrible Thunderings from below the Lake, Rivers of Liquid Fire, and the Earth continually ſhaking under our Feet, produced a Scene too dreadful to be deſcribed. When we had taken a View of this, we joined our Company, and went to the North Weſt Side to ſee the Rivers of Fire: The three large Ones were near a Mile in Breadth, and all directed their Courſe towards the Town of Biſcouto. As the Country was almoſt even, the Motion of the two laſt was very ſlow; but the firſt had run near two Leagues from the Vulcano, and was got into a more declining Ground, which made its Motion ſwifter. It is impoſſible to expreſs the Conſternation and Diſtreſſes of the Inhabitants of this Part of the Iſland, particularly thoſe of Biſcouto: The firſt River was almoſt entering their Town, which they had already abandoned; and the two others that came behind, threatened to overwhelm the adjacent Country; for they run in a Head of at leaſt four Yards high, and left no Sign of either Tree or Houſe that ſtood in their Way. This was the State of Things on the 23d. But on the 24th, it pleaſed the Almighty to abate the Force of the Fire, and ſoon after the Rivers began to have a ſlower Motion: They moved along however for ſeveral Days, and Part of the firſt entered the Town of Biſcouto, where it burnt about one Third of the Houſes, and then directed its Courſe into a Valley on one Side, where it continued its Motion four or five Days."

By a Letter ſince the above, the Trembling of the Earth was over, and every Thing quiet as before. [TERCERA, one of the Azores, or Weſtern-Iſlands, lies in the Latitude of 38: 53, (the ſame with the Rock of Liſbon) and Longitude 19: 28 W. from the Lizard. The ſame Day, the 31*ſt of* March, which they had the remarkable Flowing and Ebbing of the Sea, at Tercera, they had it in Barbados, about Four o'Clock Afternoon.]

When the Algerine Ambaſſador made his public Entry, he was deſirous of having the Lions, he brought over as a preſent, led before him, which could not be granted; however, the fine horſes and curious ſheep he intended for his Majeſty, were admitted into the cavalcade, but could not (as he expected) be drove into the apartments for the King to ſee them; at which his Excellency ſeemed ſomewhat diſguſted, till he was aſſured by the Lords in waiting, that it was contrary to the cuſtom of this country.—When he was admitted into the Royal Preſence, the King told him he was ſorry that his Excellency had ſuch a bad day for his public Entry. No, Sire, ſays the Ambaſſador, it is a very fine, it is a glorious day for me, when I have the honour to behold ſo great a Monarch as your Majeſty.

Among the Preparations at Spittalfields, for the royal Nuptials, we are told of a Suit of Cloaths weaving for a Lady of Quality, which will amount to Thirty-ſix Pounds a Yard. The Pattern coſt 100 Guineas drawing.

Mrs. Watts, reliſt of the late Dr. Watts, died Yeſterday in the 85th Year of her Age.

A private Letter from Magdebourg to a Merchant in London ſays, that the King of Pruſſia, in the Action of the 15th of laſt Month, had taken from the Auſtrians 14 Pair of Colours and Standards, and that a Pruſſian Huſſar took two with his own Hands.

A Rumour prevails at Hamburgh, which poſſibly may not be deſtitute of Foundation, that the Ruſſians finding Breſlau and Colberg both in a much better Situation than they expected, and than they were repreſented to be by the Auſtrians, have reſolved to make one vigorous Attack upon each; and if theſe Attempts do not ſucceed, to return into Winter-quarters; from an Apprehenſion, that if there is another Campaign, they may have more Enemies to deal with than they have at preſent.

Sept. 8. They write from Stockholm, that their Fleet is ready to ſail from Carlſcroon to join that of Ruſſia. It conſiſts of one Ship of 70 Guns, two of 60, one of 56, two of 50, one of 36, one of 30, an Hoſpital Ship, a Victualler, and two Flotes.

A private Letter from a Lady at Strelitz, gives the following Account of the Princeſs Charlotte, our intended Queen; "She is of a middle Size, but rather inclines to tall, has a fine Shape, graceful Carriage, fine Neck and Hands, brown Hair, round Face, blue Eyes full of Sweetneſs, Mouth rather large, roſy Lips, and extreme fine Teeth, which appear when ſhe ſpeaks or laughs; ſhe dances well, hath a very gracious and engaging Air, a youthful Look, her Temper excellent, without the leaſt Tincture of Pride."

I am, &c. W. PITT."

"Honourable ROBERT MONCKTON."

Major General MONCKTON then proceeded to put the Ribbon over Sir JEFFERY AMHERST's Shoulder, making an Apology, that Circumſtances would not admit of a more formal Inveſtiture.

Sir JEFFERY AMHERST, upon receiving the Order, addreſſed himſelf to Major General MONCKTON, in the following Terms:

"SIR,

"I AM truly ſenſible of this diſtinguiſhing "Mark of His Majeſty's Royal Approbation "of My Conduct, and ſhall ever eſteem it as ſuch; "and I muſt beg Leave to expreſs to You the "peculiar Satisfaction I have, and the Pleaſure it "gives Me, to receive this Mark of Favour from "Your Hands."

Baltimore, July 1761.

RELIGION, the crowning Excellence of intelligent Nature, claims the Approbation and close Attention of every reasonable Being, who expects future Bliss. We are bound from Principles of Gratitude and Interest to promote the Honour and Worship of the supreme Mind, as necessary to our own Prosperity, the Good of Society, and future Happiness of Man. Animated by these interesting Motives, we, of the Presbyterian Persuasion in this Town, desire, not from Party Views, but from real Principle, to purchase a Lot of Ground to erect a decent Church for Divine Service, in which we may worship GOD according to our Consciences. Upon Enquiry we find ourselves as yet insufficient to raise such a Sum as is necessary to accomplish such an important Design, beg Leave therefore to sollicit the Generosity of our Fellow-Christians to assist and encourage us in compleating a small Lottery, at a Time when the Benevolence of our Countrymen is so well tried in this Way. We hope our Claim to the public Attention is equal to any that has sollicited their Notice, and humbly expect that we shall meet with general Encouragement.
